

MCW October Newsletter

Vol.36/Issue 6/October 2010

Had a good weekend. Weather was a little cool but no rain. Saw frost one morning. There was a nice lake to walk around for anyone so inclined and we had a few trips to Camping World. Had pot luck (bring your own meat) on Friday and then a nice campfire. Saturday we had roast beef sundaes and another campfire. Had continental breakfast on Sunday. Just before we were sitting down to eat on Saturday we had a pleasant surprise.. Jack and Sue Rocker stopped in to say Hi!!!! No, they weren't hungry they just wanted to see our smiley faces.

Dunn's and Hornsby's were the first to arrive on Thursday and everyone else came on Friday.

The turnout was small but mighty. Seven coaches in all. Bill had sent out letters to new Winnebago owners and had a guest couple as a result. They live in Romeo and their names are Mike and Nancy Barnes. Very nice people and he was a scoutmaster at one time and had a big cast iron kettle in which he made cherry cobbler over the campfire for desert on Friday.. MMMMM!!!!

THIS AND THAT

The things you can learn at the Novi Camper Show! We entered a new Journey and in the course of our conversation, we mentioned John and Sharon. (We didn't use their last name.) The Winnebago rep who was in the motor home, mentioned that John and Sharon had already been there and their friends had bought the motor home that we were in. You can't keep anything secret in this club! Bob quickly called Skip to tell him about this great motor home we were in, but that it was really smelly because of the vomit in the carpet from some little boy, and that the boy had used the toilet for #2. Skip didn't believe Bob, which is smart considering the source.

Don't trust anyone who says "Well bless your heart." On the bus tour of Nashville, we learned that in the South, when someone does something that makes you angry or does something really stupid, just say, "Well bless your heart," with a Southern drawl. We heard it many times when we got together.

Phil Scramlin was brought onto the stage at the dinner theater. (This was thanks to Ron Johnson who had a cast on his foot so he got off the hook.) We learned that Pam robbed the cradle when she married Phil, and that his favorite part of Dolly Parton is her singing. It was more fun watching Pam than watching Phil.

Speaking of Pam, ask her how she escaped from the bathroom stall in the Grand Ole Opry.

At the dinner show in Nashville, Ran and Judy separated. (Judy sure was all smiles.)

Who would you think would leave his/her phone on the bus to The Grand Ole Opry? (Hint: It's the same person who drove hours out of his way to attend a weekend campout with the wrong group.)
